

Paying for the Care I Need

It is certainly no secret that paying for care as you age can be expensive and stressful. However, there are options for you. Our campus believes you should have the best possible affordable care and we are happy to offer you any information possible. Here are some options and tips for paying for your appropriate care:

- Look into Financial Aid services - Medicaid is probably the most well-known source of financial aid services, but it is not the only one. Visit: <http://payingforseniorcare.com> and click "Find Financial Assistance for Elder Care." There you will find links to information on different financial aid options.
- Look for affordable home care and assisted living - If your living care is affordable, it will make it easier for you when it comes to paying other bills. Websites such as eldercarelink and payingforseniorcare (choose the option "Find Affordable Home Care and Assisted Living") can help by requesting some basic information and then providing a list of places that best meet your needs.
- Look into your personal savings and insurance - If you are still working, it is important to continue to save. If you are still able, create a separate bank account specifically for things like this, then you can gradually increase your savings and gain interest. If you find when you are older that you haven't saved enough, find out what your medical insurance will cover. If you have no medical insurance, you may wish to look into applying for some. There are options out there with few limitations and requirements, so you should be able to find something that works for you. You can visit <http://eldercarefinancialsolutions.com> for more options and information about "private solutions" for paying for your care.

These are just a few ways to help you pay for the care you need. Remember that this is nothing to take lightly. You and your health are important, and you should give yourself the opportunity to have the best possible care.
